Serious Railroad Wreck.

By Associated Press.

St. Louis, June 9.—A very serious railroad wreck is reported from Warrenton, Mo., 61 miles west of here on the Wahash road. Two freight trains collided just outside of Warrenton this morning. Both engines and 18 cars were wrecked, seven men killed and several wounded. Of eight palace horse cars laden with race horses en route for the Kansas City races, two were wrecked and seven men in charge of the horses are reported killed, but no names are yet received. Fifteen horses were also killed. A number of trainmen were injured.

The following are the killed: W. H. Thomas, Cythiana, Ky.; Henry Stone, a trainer, Harrodsburg, Ky.; James Kelly, Chicago, Ky.; Ed. Simons, a hostler, Lexington, Ky.; Morris Green (colored), Frankfort, Ky.; Samuel Davis, a jockey, Lexington, Ky.

The injured were: William Taylor, a colored trainer, of Covington, Ky., arm broken; Louis Augustus (colored) of Harrodsburg, Ky., left thigh broken; George Hurley (colored) of Cythiana, Ky., and Lee Brown of Louisville, arms broken, and Merritt Johnson (colored) of St. Louis, arm broken.

The horses in the wrecked train were en route from Latonia to Kansas City to take part in the races.

Chicago, June 9.—Report was current here that the great race horse, the winner of the Kentucky Derby, was killed in the Wahash Railroad accident near St. Louis to-day. An inquiry here shows the report untrue. Riley was not on the train. Huntress was badly cut and jammed, and six of Murray Kellar's horses in the same car were killed.

Heavy Damages Claimed.

By Associated Press.

London, June 9.—George Washington Butterfield, an American, has brought action for libel against the Financial News for damages of £100,000 for publishing the statement that the mining operation in which Butterfield was interested was an impudent wild scheme.

A Swedish bark from Fernandina reported that on May 24th she saw a large balloon floating in the ocean. Darkness prevented a close inspection.

Ball-Players Arrested.

By Associated Press.

ROCHESTER (N. Y.), June 9.—The members of the Philadelphia (Athletic) and Rochester baseball teams (American Association), with umpire Toole, were arrested here this morning and commanded to appear forthwith before a Justice to stand an examination on a charge of playing baseball on Sunday last at Irondequoit.

Evidently Disabled.

By Associated Press.

New York, June 9.—The steamer Anchora from Glasgow reports that yesterday noon she sighted, 210 miles east of Sandy Hook, the steamer La Bourgoigne moving slowly westward. The latter left here for Havre with a large passenger list. She is evidently disabled, but to what extent is unknown.

A Close Call.

By Cable and Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, June 9.—The steamer City of Rome, which struck on Fastnet rock yesterday morning, arrived here this morning. Most of the passengers were ignorant of the fact that the ship was full of water until the steamer reached here.

"A Pair of Jacks."

Grattan Donnelly's latest farce comedy, "A Pair of Jacks," has made a popular hit and is an immediate rival of the most successful of that class of performances. It has the catchy elements of new songs, dances, pretty girls, really funny comedians and handsome costumes. R. G. Knowles has made a distinct hit in the part of Judge Jack, and his song, "I Got It," is the subject of repeated encores. Mollie Thompson's soprano work is highly spoken of, and the comedy work of Wm. J. Russell and Sol Aiken is in it from the start. Young Julius Witmark and Mamie Taylor furnish such voices as are rarely heard in farce comedy. "A Pair of Jacks" will be at McKissick's Opera House next Thursday.

Some Fine Stock.

Mr. Wellett is taking this stock to Japan, where he is interested in trying to improve their horned cattle. The freight on the eleven head from Syracuse to Tokio will amount to over $2,200.

Help Them Along.

Hastings' Cornet Band will give a series of picnics commencing next Sunday at Steamboat Springs for the purpose of raising funds to buy new uniforms. Congressional Proceedings.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—On motion of Comstock of Minnesota the title of the silver bill passed on Saturday was amended so as to read: "Directing the purchase of silver bullion and the issue of Treasury notes thereon, and for other purposes."

Dodge offered a resolution that the Secretary of the Treasury be directed to inform the House whether it is true that the Cunard Steamship Company refused to obey the orders of the officers of the United States to give a return passage to certain immigrants landed at New York in violation of the contract labor laws, and, if so, what steps have been taken to refuse entry to the steamships of that company until they had complied with the laws and made due reparation for their refusal.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The floor was then accorded to the Committee on the District of Columbia. Representative McKay of Arkansas to-day introduced a free coinage bill in the House.

SENATE.

Call offered a resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, requesting the President to institute negotiations with Spain for such modifications of the treaty with that Government as will enable American cattle to be shipped from Florida and elsewhere in the United States to Cuba.

The Senate silver bill was then taken up, and Cockrell addressed the Senate.

The cotton schedule of the tariff bill worked as the basis of action by the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee this morning, and its consideration was then completed. The changes were few and unimportant, and the members of the majority of the committee are hopeful of concluding the work on the bill by to-morrow.

The District Attorney's office was crowded this morning with census enumerators who had come to lodge complaints against certain persons whose stubbornness and refusal to answer questions rendered it impossible to complete their work within the prescribed time. Warrants were issued in 35 cases. These were disposed of in a very short time and 25 more were issued and as many officers sent out to serve them.

Receiving Outside Help.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 9.—A consolidation of the street railroads attempted to run cars this morning. Two cars were run out under police protection, but the strikers swarmed around and derailed them, and drove new conductors and drivers off. Great crowds were at the scene, and the employees of many large establishments laid off to help the strikers. The company contemplate calling on the Governor for military assistance.

Shot His Brother-in-Law.

By Associated Press.

MONTREAL, June 9.—C. C. Hale of Cleveland, Ohio, appeared in the Superior Court this morning, charged with shooting with intent to kill his brother-in-law, Eugene H. Cowles, a son of the late Edwin Cowles of the Cleveland Leader. There also appeared Mrs. Cowles and her daughter Florence, whom the nuns brought into Court on a preliminary order. At the request of Mrs. Cowles' attorney, a writ of habeas corpus for the production of her children in Court in a legal form, was issued returnable this afternoon. Cowles is resting easily, but his temperature indicates septic complications.

Cowles' condition is improving. The bullet passed through the right side of his neck, between the internal and external carotids; passed under the chin below the lingual arteries, fractured the jaw and emerged on the left side. Cowles was interviewed by a representative of the Associated Press, and he affirmed that what he had done was done under the advice of the best legal talent in the United States and Canada, and that he and his wife were in the way of an amicable settlement of their difficulties. He expressed the warmest interest in his family, and only resented outside interference.

Shutting Out Tobacco Smokers and Chewers.

By Associated Press.

New York, June 9.—At to-day's session of the Reformed Presbyterian Synod, it was decided to publish a new book of psalms with the music.

The report of the Committee on Temperance provided for the total abolition of the liquor traffic; that only unfarmenent wine be allowed at the Lord's Supper; that no young man should be eligible to the ministry who used tobacco in any form.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court respecting the "original package," the report says, has its favorable side, in that it makes national legislation upon the liquor traffic necessary.

Speaking of the influence and power of the liquor interest, it says: "On state occasions liquors weight the table presided over by our Christian President and his lady. The Vice-President goes in this respect to a greater excess, and, besides this, derives a profit from the sale of liquors on property which he owns and controls."

Probable Wife Murder.

Special to the GAZETTE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—Mrs. Mary Conlin was shot and probably fatally wounded by her husband, Michael Conlin, in their home on the San Bruno road early this morning. Conlin, who is a soap manufacturer, about 30 years of age, surrendered himself at the City Prison, stating that he had been rendered desperate by the conduct of his wife, who, ever since their marriage in 1882, indulged frequently in liquor, and would leave home to consort with disreputable characters.

Will be Surrendered.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—General Schofield has received information from General Ruger to the effect that the trouble on the Rosebud between the settlers and the Cheyennes had subsided. The Indians agreed to surrender the prisoners demanded by the authorities.

Strong Language.

J. B. Langhran, ex-mayor of North Des Moines, Iowa, said recently: "I have just recovered from a severe attack of la grippe. I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm to my chest. These remedies were just the thing in my case. My child had cough some years ago, and we used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with perfect success, since then we have never been without these medicines in our house. I had a cousin who was a printer and was employed in a job office in this city, where they were printing circulars for Chamberlain. He had a deep-seated cold and a terrible cough, and while setting up the copy he made up his mind to buy a bottle. It cured his cough and that was the first time I ever knew anything of Chamberlain's remedies. I have been strongly in their favor ever since. My own experience and that of my family convince me that these remedies are the best in the world. That is what I think." For sale by Shoemaker & Co.

The Preventive of a Terrible Disease.

No disorders, except the most deadly forms of lung disease, involve such a tremendous destruction to the organic tissue as such which fasten upon the kidneys. Such maladies, when they become chronic, and none are so liable to assume that phase—completely wreck the system. To prevent this terrible disease, recourse should be had, when the first manifestation of trouble, to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which experience has proved to be highly effective as a means of purifying the blood, and restoring the organs of urination, as well as to the liver, stomach and bowels. Another beneficial result of this medicine, naturally consequent upon its diuretic action, is the elimination from the blood of impurities which breed rheumatism, neuralgia, gout, dropsy and other maladies. By increasing the activity of the kidneys, it augments the eliminative efficiency of these organs, which are most important outlets for the escape of such impurities.

Is Consumption Incurable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark, Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an incurable consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and now on my third bottle, and able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middleton, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of lung trouble; was given up by doctors; am now a host of health." Try it. Sample bottles free at Finner's drug store.

Somebody Tells Somebody.

Dr. B. Hamlin, of Lemore, Cal., says a few dozen bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which he sold there created such a demand for the remedy that he could not sell it without it. Those who use it find it so much superior to any other remedy they have ever tried that they recommend it to their friends, and that is what makes it so popular. For sale by Shoemaker & Co.

THE GREAT QUESTION.

The Silver Men Not Discouraged.

Francis G. Newlands Interviewed by a Washington "Post" Reporter.

The following interview with Francis G. Newlands was published in the Washington Post yesterday morning. Mr. Newlands is doing good work in the interest of silver, and is deserving of much credit. He makes a clear and concise statement of the situation, and regards the McKinley bill as a bad measure. He takes the same view of it that the GAZETTE has taken. The Post says:

The action of the House Republicans at their conference and the debate in the House has added fresh interest to the silver question, and there is considerable curiosity on the part of the public to learn how the compromise measure is regarded by the bimetalists.

When a Post reporter called on Francis G. Newlands, the member of the National Silver Committee from the State of Nevada, he was found in the midst of a dismantling process at his home, as he is preparing to return to Nevada to spend the summer months.

"Have the silver men given up the fight?" repeated Mr. Newlands, in reply to the reporter's question. "Not at all. We are very much in earnest in this matter, and do not intend to run at the first fire of the gold men."

"Then you do not regard the measure proposed in the caucus of the House Republicans as a substantial recognition of the request of the silver men?"

"They are simply juggling with the silver question in the House," said Mr. Newlands, "and as a result a bill apparently providing for the increased use of silver, but really demonetizing it, has been placed before the House, and is to be rushed through after a debate of another day and a half without the privilege of offering any amendments."

THE SILVER MEN OPPOSE BULLION REDEMPTION.

"But will the bimetalists not make an effort to amend this bill?"

"I am unable to say what will be the action of the silver men in the House. The only opportunity to test their strength will be on a motion to recommit. If a motion to recommit is made so as to provide for free coinage and is lost, then there can be no test on the bullion redemption feature. I think all the silver men in the House should vote against the bill. It reduces silver to a commodity and deprives it of its chief element of value as a money metal."

"Then you do not regard the bill as being as much of a compromise as has been claimed for it?"

"The bill is a monometallic one, nothing more nor nothing less. Silver bullion is to be used simply as a security for the certificates issued upon it. Four and a half million dollars' worth purchased the first month can be redeemed the next month. Should the increased purchase of bullion go on until $100,000,000 is accumulated, the entire amount could be withdrawn at any moment. The currency would thus be contracted to this amount and a large amount of bullion thrown on the world. I predict that if this bill were to pass, the Treasury would be but a conduit through which England would draw here silver for use in England. But the gold monometalists who are pushing this measure say this power will never be exercised. Do you doubt that if Cleveland, Manning and Jordan were in power that they would be exercised? Why is this power asked for and insisted upon, if not to be exercised? Can there be any doubt that it will be exercised at some time, under some Secretary and by some system of jugglery?"

ONLY IN THE FORM OF MONEY.

"The bimetalists insist that whatever gold or silver goes into the Treasury should come out only as money, either in the shape of actual coin or certificates calling for coin in the Treasury."

"Do you think the silver men in the House will stand together regardless of party lines?"

"I don't know. The party whip is being applied to the Republicans. Although the caucus was declared not to be binding on the participants, it was a meeting for conference only. The business of the House, by reason of the power of the Committee on Rules, is under the control of three men, Reed, Cannon and McKinley. McKinley is a bimetalist and thinks free coinage can be safely entered upon, but Reed and Cannon are pronounced for the gold standard. They are responsible for the actions of the House, and upon them will rest either the honor or the odium of this nation."

THE CHINA AND INDIA SCARE.

"I am told that in the conference when McKinley made his motion to strike out the bullion redemption clause Reed opposed it in a vigorous speech, in which he declared we must adhere to the gold standard. Otherwise we would sink to the level of China and India."

"Then you do not concede this argument has any force?"

"No. Does any one suppose the condition of India or China would be changed if they were to adopt the gold standard? Mr. Reed might just as well advise us to refrain from eating rice lest we become Chinamen."

I HOPE THE BIMETALLISTS OF THE HOUSE WILL ACT UPON THEIR CONVICTIONS REGARDLESS OF PARTY AND NOT DELEGATE THEIR RIGHT TO THINK AND VOTE TO A SELECT COMMITTEE.

If they have an opportunity let them vote for free coinage; if this is not obtainable let them vote to strike out the bullion redemption feature. If these fail let them kill the bill and let the gold men in the Republican party who are falsely masquerading as the friends of silver be held responsible by the country for their violation of that plank in the Republican National platform which condemns Cleveland for his efforts to demonetize silver and declares for the use of both gold and silver as money."

SILVER MEN NOT DISCOURAGED.

"Are the silver men discouraged over the outlook, Mr. Newlands?"

"Not in the least. They are annoyed because there is not immediate action on the question which involves the prosperity of the whole country and to the favorable solution of which the Republican party is pledged. We will win yet," continued Mr. Newlands.

"The Senate is overwhelmingly opposed to bullion redemption, and there are enough Republican Senators from the Western States, in which silver is the all-important issue, to hold the tariff bill up until favorable silver legislation can be secured. If I were in the Senate I would join the Democrats in laying the tariff bill to one side until the East would consent to deal fairly with the West on a question of such vital importance. I am tired of seeing men whose vision does not extend west of Wall street controlling the legislation of the country."

"The Republicans of the West have cheerfully joined the Republicans of the East in protecting the industries of the country, although those interests lie almost entirely east of Ohio, thus building up and solidifying the nation. But the East now has all the turkey and gives the West a string to the turkey, and it should withhold it until there is something more like an equal division of beneficial legislation."

SHOULD NO LONGER OBEY THE PARTY WHIP.

"These men who are continually opposing Western interests do not hesitate to use the party to advance their own interests, and when it is necessary they ignore party lines. The Western members should no longer allow themselves to be forced into the position of hewers of wood and drawers of water by the crack of the Republican lash."

"Has the National Silver Committee decided on any action?"

"Yes; the committee has been in session and has determined that if any bill is passed which contains the bullion redemption feature a national silver convention should be called to assemble immediately after harvest, in which bimetalists generally, including labor and farming organizations, will be invited to participate."

TO BE MADE A POLITICAL ISSUE.

"I predict that in such an event the convention will be the largest and most earnest ever held in the country. The organization of the national convention recent years ago in St. Louis is complete in every State in the Union, and an active canvass will be conducted against all the representatives who betray their constituents on this question, and especially those Republicans who violate their pledges on a question which is above party and involves the prosperity and happiness of mankind."

"The man who votes for gold redemption votes for the demonetization of silver and will have to defend himself on that ground. The upholder of this new system of coinage—only a few years old—by which the bankers of the world sought to increase the value of their hoards and the burdens of all obligations by cutting off one of the national sources of money, simply will have to meet the producers, the farmers and the laboring men at the polls. It is time for plain speech. I issue the note of warning to the silver men of the country."

"Is there any interest at work, Mr. Newlands, to retain the bullion redemption feature in the bill that is expected to become a law?"

A DEVICE OF THE GOLD MEN.

"There must be. I regard the bill as a device of the gold metalists to divert what they call the 'silver craze' by a measure apparently favorable to the bankers. The bankers of the East are doubtless supporting it. It is strange what influence the opinions of the bankers have on the average man in reference to this monetary question. As a rule the bankers know nothing of monetary science. A good banker should have knowledge of human nature, knowledge of values, the caution to see that every loan is amply secured, and the conservatism to resist the temptations to risk. Most of them do not know as much of monetary science, the relation of the volume of money to population, the effects of change of standard and the results of contraction and expansion as the average public man. Talk with one of them on the subject and he will look wise, was his head enormously and will say nothing that is worthy the name of argument."

NO DISASTERS AS PREDICTED.

"For the last twelve years the banks have been predicting disaster from the coinage of silver, but it has not taken place. They crowded Mr. Cleveland with fears and are doubtless influencing many a weak and undecided man who thinks he ought to know something on the subject. Why, we might as well be guided by railroad presidents as to the control of railroads and gas and water directors as to regulating the price of gas and water as by bankers in relation to monetary legislation. It is a part of their business to make money scarce and dear so as to increase the purchasing power. If the volume of money is only sufficiently contracted the bankers will be able to own the world."

Mr. Newlands was very much in earnest in discussing the monetary question and in referring to that class of men who, in order to secure patronage from the Administration or favor from the Speaker of the House, surrender their convictions and imperil the interests of their constituents, used language more vigorous than diplomatic. He also took occasion to refer in uncompromising terms to the members who dodged the vote in the House on Thursday when the effort was made to recommit the bill. However, Mr. Newlands is very sanguine that the silver men will yet succeed.

MR. FITCH ON THE SITUATION.

The Ex-Congressman Interviewed on the All-Important Subject of Free Coinage and the McKinley Bill.

Assuming that the views of our townsman, ex-Congressman Fitch, on the silver situation will be of interest to our readers, a representative of the GAZETTE interviewed the gentleman and opened the conversation by asking his opinion as to the silver bill which passed the house on Saturday.

"I gather great hope and expectation," replied Mr. Fitch, "from the strength of the opposition to the bill."

With the administration, the caucus whip, the Speaker and all the House and committee machinery in the hands of the mono-metalists, they only succeeded in pressing their infamous measure by a majority of fourteen votes. There is no danger of the bill becoming a law—the Senate will take care of that—and the free coinage men now know who are their friends, who are their open foes, who are the treacherous ones, and just where to work in future."

"Then you do not consider the bill which passed the House on Saturday as advantageous to the silver interests?"

"Advantageous? It is as bad as the demonetization act of 1873. It is worse, for it betrays while pretending to favor the silver cause. By it silver is made merchandise as distinctly as lead and copper are merchandise. Of what use is it to compel the Secretary of the Treasury to purchase four and a half millions of silver bullion during the month, when by the second section of the bill he is practically authorized to sell that month's accumulations the next day and is not really compelled to coin a dollar?"

"But does the second section authorize the Secretary to redeem notes in bullion unless the holder of the notes demands bullion?"

"The second section is capable of two constructions. One is that the Secretary has the option to redeem the notes in coin or bullion at his discretion absolutely, and the other is that he can exercise such discretion only when the holder of the notes demands bullion. Who can doubt that the Secretary would make such a construction as would best suit his demand? And upon either construction it would be easy to arrange for a sale of bullion accumulations in the Treasury whenever Wall street desired such a move. The bill is a temptation to gigantic stock gambling and corruption; it is demonetization utter and complete; it is monometallic in its most objectionable and disastrous form; it would stop the coinage of silver; it would close the Carson Mint. It is an outrage which ought to result in returning to private life every representative of a farming community who voted for it."

"What effect will it have upon party politics?"

"It appears," rejoined Mr. Fitch, "that 101 Democrats and 15 Republicans voted for free coinage, and 13 Democrats and 127 Republicans voted against it. Whatever the Democrats did or failed to do with respect to free coinage while Cleveland was President, and whatever course they might have taken on Saturday if there had been a Democrat in the White House, and whatever they may do hereafter, and whatever their motives for their action on last Saturday, the interesting fact remains that as a party they stand on record to-day in favor of free coinage to one, while the Republicans as a party stand on record to one against it. Whatever advantage their position on silver may gain for the Democrats in the coming elections they are fairly entitled to, and I reckon they will get it. I observe that on the Republican side the free coinage vote was given by one member from Michigan, one from Nebraska, four of the seven members from Kansas, three of the four members from California, and the members from Oregon, Montana, Colorado and Nevada. In the Pacific States and the silver States the Republican party ought not to suffer, and I do not believe it will suffer on account of the mono-metallic attitude of Republicans east of the Missouri. In this State the Republicans, by their State Central Committee, have refused, and I believe the State and County Conventions will perpetuate the refusal, to be governed by Eastern opinion, or administration, or caucus dictation. I do not doubt that all the Pacific States, including Colorado and Montana, will take the same course, and the members from Kansas, Nebraska and Michigan who voted for free coinage may save their districts, but, outside of that, I look for a political cyclone in the West."

"Do you think that the Republican party on this coast can maintain itself on a free coinage basis against a contrary position of the party in the East?"

"Why not? We have not changed. Our platform, on which Harrison was elected, censures the Democrats for their previous opposition to bi-metalism, and declares in favor of it. It is our Eastern allies, and not ourselves, who have repudiated the party faith. I am a Republican, and expect to remain so, but as a Republican I could go with a clear conscience into the district of every recreant Republican Congressman from the West who voted for the caucus bill last Saturday, and do my best to help elect his Democratic opponent. My motto would be, 'Free Coinage First—Politics Afterward.' And, believe me, there are tens of thousands of voters in the West and South who feel as I do."

PRACTICAL TESTS.

An Astonishing Offer—Some of the Replies.

The San Francisco papers of recent date contained the following offer:—

"As an evidence of the ability of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla to prevent sick headaches, we will give to the first twelve responsible persons who will apply at our office a bottle free if they will agree that after they have been cured that they will admit the fact over their signatures."

This offer so manifestly asserted the efficiency of the remedy that many accepted, and the letters of the parties, nearly all of whom responded, are probably the most convincing attestations that any remedy ever received. The following is a sample of those received:—

"I have been subject to bilious headaches and constipation for several years past; in fact, have been compelled to take a physio every other night or else I would have a headache and dull, heavy feeling. I have taken that bottle of Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla, and have derived great benefit from the blood, and malaria from the system. Only one will do. Try them this spring. Sold at 25 cents a box by S. J. Hodgkinson."
